Wellness Class Descriptions

Brain Can Change Class: Clinic based group exercise programming for individuals who have sustained neurologic trauma. Class is overseen by licensed physical therapist and consists of brief evaluation and progression of wellness programming. This class is an excellent option for those with ongoing wellness aspirations after formal PT. Class Postponed due to COVID-19

PD Boxing: Led at an offsite location, by a trainer who is certified through "Undefeated" Rock Steady Boxing program, this class meets multiple times a week to be active through non-contact boxing in a dedicated boxing gym. Activities include various boxing exercises as well as training circuits for all activity levels.

Geriatric Wellness Program: Exercise program for persons that have ongoing general exercise needs with specific access to body weight support and other balance-assistive equipment. Class postponed due to COVID-19

PD Agility: This class is offered multiple times a week, with a different focus on separate days. Within the PD agility class, there will be days tailored around exercises that improve balance, flexibility, agility, and BIG movements. All class themes are addressed each week, and are not limited to only the specific theme of the day. Class postponed due to COVID-19

Chair Yoga: Like its name suggests, this class is a chair-based session working through Yoga poses and movements in a seated position. This class is ideal for individuals of all activity and experience levels, and is great for improving strength, flexibility, and balance. Class postponed due to COVID-19

TaiChi: This class is designed to improve strength, balance and physical functioning of each individual. This class will help you slow down and connect your body to your breathe. This class is designed for all individuals of all types and backgrounds.
